Girls' tennis it's a lot of fun

It was a beautiful autumn day on Friday. And in Belleville, there was a little extra activity to add to the fresh feeling that the fresh feeling tournament was under way. Granite City was well represented. Both North and South High Schools sent teams. But besides all of the competition, there was some finaments of the fresh fres

Stinson cited the "sharp in-crease" in steel imports, "particularly in sheet products," as a factor con-tributing to lower steel shipments.

He added that it was "regrettable" that both the strikes and the rise in steel imports should occur "at a time when we could have benefited from good demand* for flat-rolled products. Unauthorized strikes idled most of National's coal mines in Kentucky and West Virginia and its largest iron-ore pelact plant in Minnesota for able plant in Minnesota for able quarter, Stimon said. While coal production resumed Sept. 2, the strike

Curb spending — Dixon

"The latest report of the Census Bureau, issued Oct. 10, found governments at all levels collected $558 billion in taxes in fiscal 1976," said Dixon. "That was $27 billion more than in the previous year.
"More than half was collected to the bederal government."

"Illinois" state government has been growing because the cost of services it provides has been growing. During fiscal 1977, for instance, we spent 8384 million for hospital inpatient services under the Medicaid par enter from the previous year. "During the six years I was your state treasurer, I walched, warned and urged restraint at the state spent more money than it was taking in. The balant from to a crisis level. "Ouf income and sales taxes give gis a bull-in state revenue rise as people's carrings and spending go up with inflation. "We have to keep down the costs of government. Government costs of government of governments which is the government which was the government of the government which is the government every year for the last 23 years."

The American people can afford only as much government service as they can pay for, Alan J. Dixon, secretary of state, warned today at a luncheon of the Edwardsville Rotary Club in the First Methodist Church dining room.

"More than half was collected by the federal government, about a quarter by state governments, and 19 per cent by local governments. "Here in Illinois, appropriations to spend more than 10½ billion of the taxpayers' money have been voted by the General Assembly this year and signed by the governor.

Court recognizes importance of installing sanitary sewers

Quad-Cityans who have tried for years to extend sanitary sewers in a circle—extending through Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships and the area of the Tri-City Port and the Granite area of the Tri-City Port and the Granite properties of the Madison County-sponsored sewer program.

Sanitary sewers are essential in the world of the 1970s, not only to assure healthy residential areas but also to permit neatiny residential areas but also to permit logical extension of port and port-related facilities. The whole Interstate 270 area could benefit immensely.

The sooner the project is allowed proceed, the better off will be individual families and the entire community and region. No further delay is justified.

Conciliatory attitude in fall session of Illinois Assembly

Press-Record Springfield Bureau—The lost remarkable aspect of Gov. James hompson's address to the Illinois General Monday was the conciliatory Assembly Monday was the conclusions to the of his remarks. It is unusual for a political leader to concede that the position he is taking may not be the wisest, fairest and most expert, but that's what Gov. Thompson did in referring to a couple of his vetoes on controversial subjects.

He did not take a hard-line stand on these oversions of least-like healty-zion and

He did not take a naro-anne stano on those questions of laetrile legalization and state financing of abortions for the poor. Instead, he asked the legislators to read his veto messages "carefully, ave, prayer-fully," before voting to sustain or overturn on the end, you must act out of a sense to foyour own conscience as I have tried to act out of mine," he told them.

His appeal for action on a criminal sentencing law likewise demonstrated the governor's willingness to compromise. Thompson has taken a strong stand in layor of a "Class" and eategory for serious crimes, but he told the legislators. "I believe that name to be important, and related to the central purpose of criminal law to the contral purpose of criminal law of the contral purpose of criminal law of the contral purpose."

related to the central purpose of criminal aw—deterrence.

"I may be wrong. In any event ... vote the name up or down, and then let us move to the other tasks which the people have sent us here to do."

We do not agree with criticism that the governor wasted time with his speech because he did not suggest anything new nor take an adamant stand for his positions. A conciliatory approach often is more effective than a hard line.

One of the Democrats' criticisms does have some validity. The governor did not done to the composition of genting lilimote compensation regulations— a most important issue for this fall legislative session.

We also find some fault with one of the ompromises Gov. Thompson indicated intends to support. That is an eighterson Board of Elections with equal epresentation by the two major parties.

It may be the best compromise available because of unwillingness of a majority of legislators to support a measure which calls for one board member who is not a member of either major party. But we are still concerned about the possibility of tie votes on significant political questions if membership is didded equally between the two parties.

Overall, however, we believe the people of Illinois will applaud the conciliatory tone of the governor's address.

The public has no real use for political partisanship; while citizens may sligare on sixues, they generally agree on the need for sensible government. That's what the governor was appealing for.

Data provided earlier showed how foreign imports grew from less than two per cent of U.S. consumption in 1980 to an average of 14 per cent during the 1970s.

This makes the U.S. not only the world's largest buyer of foreign steel, but also the in-
